

Inspire them to serve you with their whole heart and with a willing mind. Let children be pointed in the right direction as arrows in the hands of their parents, that the parents may count themselves happy to have their quiver full of them. Let children never be arrows that pierce the hearts of their own parents